SCHOOL CHILDREN NEED OLD PAPERS TO BUY VICTROLA

Have you any old papers or magazines? The Washington school are working hard for a victrola. Last spring the campaign for funds began. Pupils in all grades set about to earn the money, none is to be donated. They used paper, and as long as the children limit their canvass for paper to the Washington school district. Already $16 has been earned.

The happy suggestion came to one pupil that maybe some folks had records which they have grown tired of hearing. These would be most acceptable to the school. It would save them raising the money for records.

Those who have papers or records may call at the Washington school and the children will come after the articles.

NEWS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The Americanization Teacher

What is it all about—this Americanization of foreigners that we see and hear mentioned everywhere these days? No one doubts the need of teaching our language to the thousands of foreigners in America, but how is it being done and who is back of it?

In Cleveland, Ohio, the work is in charge of an Americanization Council which co-operates with the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., schools, factories, churches, and other agencies which are trying to teach English and good citizenship to foreigners. The selection and payment of teachers of English classes is in charge of the Board of Education, the classes meet in schools and libraries.

The need for teachers is apparent. There are 125,000 foreigners in Cleveland alone who neither read nor write English. And the demand is bound to grow as more people are reached, and demand to learn the language and custom of this new home land.

United States of America

Some of the liveliest classes in Akron, Ohio, are being taught by young girls, 15 and 20 years old. They are wide awake young people who have caught the true American spirit of equality and win the confidence of the middle-aged men in their classes by their democratic helpfulness.

It doesn't take a group of foreigners long to sense whether their teacher is a "white" or whether she feels she is made of firer clay than they are. The attendance in her class will rise or fall accordingly.

Here is a chance for the girl with a pleasing personality and a living belief that "all men are created equal" to enter into one of the vital problems of the day. It is a field where many are needed but only the best are given.

Most of the classes are in the late afternoon and early evening, although many factories have morning classes. The company will be ready to receive cattle Monday. All purchases will be made under the direction of Richard Thurman, export buyer.

The U. S. Bureau of Education is making a study of this work and has some recent pamphlets on the subject.

WHAT BOYS CAN BE

Government Service

How would you like to work for Uncle Sam?

Did you know that your Uncle is the largest employer in the world? He hires under Civil Service rules more than 820,000 persons. The U. S. Civil Service Commission says that probably no occupation exists which is not in the Civil Service. About 40,000 persons are appointed to positions each year.

Jobs are awarded in civil service by examination. A new position is taken in the information and qualifications necessary to that job. The appointment is made from among the persons receiving the highest grade in that examination. If you are the best man for the job the chances are that you will get it.

Because you start in at the small salary doesn't mean that you will stay there. Large numbers of cases are on record where men have earned $1000 or more in a year, $1000 or less in a number of years by work and study have gained four, five, or six thousand dollars a year.

THE ROMANCE OF TRUE STORIES OF SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It is a long jump from a dollar a day to a hundred a week, and it seems incredible that a little seamstress could branch out into the broader world of office manager with an entire country as her field. Iva Mahler has done just that, and little do the big business men, who have hired her during the past few years, think that the efficient woman who straightens out the employment difficulties was once a dressmaker.

Iva was the oldest of the five Mahler children. Her father had a hard time to support his large family for he was an uneducated man and had no trade. When Iva was in the eighth grade at school the family finances were in such a condition that it was impossible for her to continue her studies, and so she left school to find employment. There seemed to be no choice as to what work she would do. Her problem was to find anything at all which would pay something. The first work she found was in her own neighborhood as a dressmaker. She learned to sew from the wealthy people. She went out by the day, but would often take work home to finish it in time for a party or a dance.

Starts as Errand Girl.
Iva would stay at the dressmaker's house all day to answer the telephone. Then she was given a boy to sew on hooks and eyes, baste and rip and do other odd jobs which a 13-year-old girl could do, and finally she would act as errand girl and deliver the garments to their owners.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am just a high school girl of 17. My brother and I are orphans and live with our aunt and uncle. My brother and I were very much in love and he married a girl who works hard and makes a good salary. Neither my aunt nor I like the girl he is to marry. She is very pretty, but aside from that she is not lovely for she treats her own mother very badly. Twice when calling on some errand I have heard her say unkind things. Her nearest girl friend told me she openly declared to her that she was marrying him because he makes a fine appearance and can give her more than some other fellows. She said better. Do you think it right for a girl to talk that way of the man she intends to marry?

I was so worried about it that I told my brother and instead of feeling grateful he was very angry with me for listening to such things.

"Should I try to make her see she is not suited to him?" I asked. He should succeed in breaking up their engagement. I would probably lose my brother's love, but I would be willing to lose it for any time rather than to have him unhappy.

MARJORIE.

You have no right to interfere with your brother regarding his marriage. You have told him all you know against the girl, and he will not listen. Probably he knows a more lovable side than you have seen. Of course she should be kind to her mother. It may be, however, that the mother has never taught her respect. Her own home and your brother's love may make a different girl of her.

The remark which her "nearest girl friend" made was catty and too mean to consider seriously. The girl who did the gossiping is too foolish and unworthy to be called a "friend." Stand by your brother for better

SWEETLY SIMPLE DANCE FROCK FOR MISS DEBUTANTE

By ELOISE.

Simplicity was never so enchanting and bewitching as in this dainty dance frock for the young debutante.

It will be easier for some one who knows you to give you advice. If you go to school, tell your teacher what you have told me and ask her to tell you frankly what is the matter. Try not to feel too badly about this. Almost every one passes through just such a period. You may be changing more than the other girls and have the gossiping is too foolish and unworthy to be called a "friend."

Stand by your brother for better

It does not distress me to see a well-dressed, well-behaved woman pleading on the public highway for the freedom of her sex, which I do not see as a woman returning to the factory a heavy armful of clothing she has just finished sewing up for a pittance in her tenement rooms.

It does not disgust me to see a girl handling out literature at a strikers' mass meeting nearly as much as when a tired mother comes home with aching back over the family wash-tub.

"Speaking of bloom," I smiled, "it often seems to me that woman has a better chance to preserve it in an office than over the kitchen range. And 'ugly affairs of the world' are so much a matter of taste, aren't they, mother? The most overworked grudge I ever knew was a woman whose husband used to say he always placed his wife upon a pedestal."

"I'm sure James exacts very little of you, Ann, in the way of household work," replied my mother-in-law.

"Heaven save me from the woman who brings everything back to the personal viewpoint! From that moment I knew that Mother Salsbery and I would understand each other just as well as a Chinaman does a Swede!"

GENERAL CROWDER

Is called the "general" because he is the originator of the plan for the draft, Indian fighter with General Pershing, and "the dearest old thing in the army." They are all appropriate nicknames, especially the last one.

He is one of the busiest men in the war department, but he is never too busy to do a sympathetic or kind thing, especially for some humble and unknown individual.

Perhaps one reason for his kindly treatment of his inferiors is his high estimate of human nature; "Courage," he once remarked, "is universal. Almost every man in the army distinguished himself for bravery on the battle field. Golly is therefore a matter of degree."

The people who work in General Crowder's office never know what he is going to do next, except that it will probably be something unexpected. One day he called in a man who was doing the war activities a personage of some importance called.

"Oh, tell him to come in," he said. Then, "No," he called after his retreating secretary. "Tell him I can see him. Tell him everyone wants to see me. The secretary wants me. The president wants me. God Almighty himself has sent for me!"

And he grabbed his cap and rushed from the office.

The department of agriculture assisted the census bureau in preparing the list of questions to be asked of every farmer at the coming census.

apples are done and have absorbed the liquid.

When cold place two halves together in sauce dish and top with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Ham and Spaghetti—Two onions, one package spaghetti, two cups chopped ham, pepper, one-quarter cup butter substitute, one and one-half cups tomato juice, one-half teaspoon salt, grated cheese.

Boil and strain spaghetti, brown chopped onion in butter substitute. Add ham, spaghetti, tomato juice, salt and pepper. Pour into baking dish, cover with grated cheese and bake in moderate oven until brown.

This is a good one-dish meal. A potato saver and meat extender. Any scraps or ends of ham can be used, using the fat scraps instead of butter substitute.

Cranberry Pie—Wash and pick over two cups of cranberries. Stew them ten minutes with one cup sugar and three-quarters cup of water, or corn syrup can be used, omitting the water. Fill undercrust having raised rim. Arrange strips of pastry on the top and bake about forty minutes.

This is a very attractive pie and one keenly enjoyed by all.

TRY THESE

Potatoes do not stain the hands if peeled while quite dry and not thrown into the water till afterward.

When salad dressing is liable to curdle a small pinch of soda dropped in will prevent it from doing so.

To keep doughnuts from burning, drop a piece of raw potato in the burning fat and you will have no trouble with them.

Remove lid and cover with bleached dough rolled three-eighths inch thick. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. This is well browned. This makes a substantial one-dish meal which is satisfying without being heavy, and which uses any bits of left-over meat or vegetable scraps, parsley or any preserved seasoning may be used.

Baked Apples—Pare, cut in halves and core apples which hold their shape when cooked. Place cut ends down in a baking dish and pour over a cup of water in which has been dissolved a cup of sugar and a cup of grapejuice. Bake slowly till

THE WISHING PLANE

It was a sad little group that gathered in Captain Brave's room at the hotel when they returned from their attempt to follow the kidnappers across the bay.

"The band knows by this time that we are on the trail," said Captain Brave. "They can still come to the harbor from wherever their hiding place may be. We must watch the dock. If they see they are being followed they can come back to the harbor and hide for a while, just as they did today. I don't know what we can do next."

Captain Brave left Ladydeer, Signor Angelo and Como long enough to go down to the clerk's desk for his mail. He bounded up the stairs and into the room almost yelling for joy.

"Everything's all right now. We'll have Jack and Jane with us in less than an hour. It takes to tell," he almost shouted.

"Tell us, quick! What have you heard?" said Ladydeer.

"Why, Captain Bold's right here in the harbor. The cross submarine. Don't you see? It's all over now."

"Who is Captain Bold?" asked Signor Angelo.

"Oh, the children must have forgotten you about him," said Ladydeer. "He is a very dear friend of Captain Brave's. When we left America with the children, Captain Brave arranged to let Captain Bold in mid-ocean. We spent a few days on Captain Bold's boat."

He took us to the bottom of the sea and showed us a treasure chest with enough jewels, gold and silver to make the children, Captain Bold, the members of his crew and Captain Brave as rich as any one would want to be for the rest of our lives. We had to say goodbye to Captain Bold later when he was ordered to another part of the ocean, but Captain Brave has kept in touch with him and before we left Switzerland wrote to Captain Bold and told him he would be in Naples at this time. And now Captain Bold has come.

"And he and his submarine will help us follow the kidnappers and really find out where they are hiding. The note from Captain Bold said he had finished telling about the submarine and Captain Bold."

"The note from Captain Bold says he arrived at Naples this morning and, by inquiring at the hotels, learned where we were. He was here while we were out and is coming back early this afternoon. When he comes we will tell him about the kidnapping of the children and the night we are in. I know that he will use his submarine, his men and more submarines, if necessary, to help us rescue Jack and Jane."

We will arrange to get onto his boat at the other end of the harbor where the kidnappers will not see us. Then he can run the undersea boat out into the middle of the harbor and bring the boat to the surface and the kidnappers will be there. The next time the kidnappers come to the harbor will be in a boat. They won't be able to see us this time, for the only part of Captain Bold's boat that will be above the water will be the little piece of pipe by which you can see out over the water. Then, when we reach the hiding place Captain Bold will bring the boat to the surface and we will jump out before the kidnappers can hardly move."

And, happy in the thought that a way had been found to trail the kidnappers to Jack and Jane, the children's friends rested and chatted in their room until Captain Bold came.

WOMEN CANDIDATES IN LONDON TOTAL 220

London, Eng.—Two hundred and twenty women thus far have declared themselves as municipal candidates in the November elections throughout twenty-nine London boroughs.

The majority of these cut their eye teeth of authority and executive direction at war work, which indicates that once the average woman leaves her home and freights to duty in the line of what used to be man's work, seldom does she return to the realm of the knitting needle and household duties. One demobilized officer said:

"It will require another generation of women to restore the domestic tranquility of pre-war days. What great Britain needs more than better housing is home staying women."

A census of the country's manufacturing was made for the first time in 1830. Under the present law a manufacturer's census is to be taken in connection with the fourteenth decennial census and every two years thereafter.

"Oh, no, doctor! You're wrong," said the frantic mother. "He has been acting very queerly for several days. He makes the most awful faces at his father and squirms and this morning he tried to throw the rubber ball at a broken milk bottle. It was the usual contents of a normal baby's stomach."

"After all I've done, Mrs. Flapjackson, we've discovered nothing wrong with the baby. He seems to be strong and healthy."

Days of Real Sport Give Way to Era of Real Fun

(BY PEO O'BRIEN)

The days of real sport are not entirely in the dim past. They may have been your days of real sport but the kids say that this is the era of real fun.

Kids are playing the same games today that their parents before them revelled in 40 years ago. Races time at the schools in the city finds them a war-whooping mass of humanity, cub-like in their recreation.

The old stand-bys, "Pom Pom Pull Away," "Prisoner's Base," "Last Couple Out," and "Crack the Whip," are as popular with the present-day kids as they were with the old-timers.

Children Active Now

These bright, snappy autumn days find the children more active than any other season of the year. Exhilarating games like tag variations, cub-like in their recreation, are as popular with the present-day kids as they were with the old-timers.

He caught her arm this time, brutally jerking her toward him, but as he staggered backward, grasping at the table, the flash of anger in his eyes changing to a look of startled surprise. The polished black barrel, shining ominously in the light of the overhead lamp.

"Now perhaps you know what I mean," she said. "If you dare to touch me I will kill you like a dog. That is no threat; it is true as God's gospel, and the very tone of her voice carried conviction. 'You may say I am a slave—your slave! That may be so, but you will never possess me—never! Life means nothing to me any more, and I never expect to go out of this house alive; I do not even care to. So I am not afraid of you. Do not drop your arms, you low-lived cur, for you have never been nearer death, in all your miserable life than you are now. God knows I want to kill you; it is the one desire of my heart at this moment to rid the earth of a creature like you. But I'll give you one chance—just one. Don't you dare call out or answer me. Do what I say. Now step back—back along the table, that's it, a step at a time. Oh, I knew you were a cowardly bully. Go on—yes, clear to that window; don't lower those hands an inch until I say you may—on a slave—yes, but I am also a Beaucaire. Now reach behind you and pull up the sash—pull it up higher than that.' Her eyes dilated with sudden as tonishment and terror. She had caught sight of me, emerging from the black shadow just behind her victim. Kirby also perceived the quick change in the face confronting him, read its expression of fright, and sought to twist his head so as to learn the truth. Yet before he could accomplish this, his lips could give utterance to a sound, my hands closed on his throat, crushing him down to the sill, and throttling him into silence between the vise of my fingers.

CHAPTER VII

To Save a "Nigger"

It proved to be a short, sharp struggle, from the first the advantage altogether with me. With all the old-time dislike in my heart, all the hatred, aroused by what I had overheard, I closed down on his throat, rejoicing to see the purple of his flesh turn into a sickening black, as he fought desperately for breath, and as he lost consciousness and ceased from struggle. I was conscious of a pang in my wounded shoulder, yet it seemed to me of no strength, but only added to my ferocity. The fellow rested limp in my hands. I believed I had killed him, and the belief was a joy as I tossed his helpless body on the floor, and stepped through the open window into the room.

In my heart I hoped he was dead, and in a sudden feeling of utter cold, I struck the inert body with my foot. Then, as my eyes lifted, they encountered those of the girl. She had drawn back to the table, startled out of all reserve by this sudden apparition, unable to comprehend. The pistol yet remained clasped in her hand, while she stared at me as though a ghost confronted her.

"Who—who are you?" she managed to gasp in a voice which barely reached my ears. "My God—who sent you here?"

"It must have been God," I answered, realizing instantly that I needed to make all clear in a word. "I came only to help you and was just in time—no doubt God sent me."

"To help me? You came here to help me? But how could that be? I—I never saw you before—who are you?"

I stood straight before her, my eyes meeting her own frankly. I had forgotten the dead body at my feet, the incidents of struggle, the pain of my own wounds, the importance of compelling her to grasp the truth.

"There is no time to explain all this, Miss Reno. You must accept the bare facts as they will you."

"Yes—I suppose I must."

"Then listen, for you must know that every moment we waste here in talk only makes escape more difficult. I tell you the simple truth. I am Steven Knox, an officer in the army. It chanced I was a passenger on the boat when Judge Beaucaire lost his life. I witnessed the game of cards this man won, and afterward, when I protested, was attacked and flung overboard into the river by Kirby and that fellow who is outside guarding the door. They believe me to be dead; but I managed to reach shore and was taken care of by a negro—Free Pete—he calls himself; do you know him?"

"Yes—oh, yes; he was one of the Carlton slaves. Her face brightened slightly in his bewilderment.

"Well, I knew enough of what was bound to occur to feel an interest, and tonight he brought me here for the purpose of warning you. You, your mother and Eloise Beaucaire. He has his cart and mule out yonder; we intended to transport you across the river, and thus start you safely on the way to Canada."

"Then," she said slowly, seeming to catch at her breath, her voice trembling, "that it must be really true what these men say—Della is my mother? I—I am a slave?"

"You did not really know? You were not warned by anyone before their arrival?"

"No, there was no warning. Did anyone in this neighborhood understand?"

"Faintly the lawyer did. He furnished me with much of the information I possess. But I am the one puzzled now. If the truth was not known to any of you how does it happen the others are gone?"

"So far, as I am aware that is merely an accident. They walked over to the old Carlton place early this evening; there is sickness in the family, and they hoped to be of help. That is everything I know. They were to return two hours ago, for I was here all alone, except for the negroes in their quarters. I cannot conceive what has occurred—unless they have learned in some way of the trouble here."

"That must be the explanation; they have hidden themselves. And these men told you why they came."

"The only one I saw at first did. He came in all alone and claimed to be a deputy sheriff. I was terribly frightened at first, and did not at all understand; but I questioned him and the man liked to talk. So he told me all he knew. Perhaps I should have thought he was crazy; only—only some things had occurred of late which led me to half suspect the truth before. I—I wouldn't have it then—but I made him repeat everything he had heard. Horrible as it was I—I wanted to know all."

"And you acknowledged to him that you were Rene Beaucaire?"

"Her dark eyes flashed up into my face questioningly.

"Why—why, of course. I—I could not deny that, could I?"

"Perhaps not; yet if none of them knew you, and you had claimed to be Eloise, they would never have dared to hold you prisoner."

"I never once thought of that; the only thing which occurred to me was how I could best protect her. My plan was to send them warning in some way. Still now I am very glad I saw Rene."

SPANISH FLU BREAKS OUT IN YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, O.—Spanish influenza has broken out among workmen living in steel mills here on account of the steel strike, according to announcement by Youngstown hospital officials today, who said that six cases had been taken to the hospital from the Ohio works of the Carnegie Steel Company, and three from the Brier Hill Steel Company.

Doctors are agreed that precautionary measures are a mere necessity rather than ever before. The secret of avoiding influenza is to keep the germs from lodging and developing in the respiratory organs—the mouth, nose and throat. The utmost care should be taken not to catch cold, for colds weaken the resistance to influenza germs. No one should be allowed to breathe in your face because the germs are often transmitted in this manner. Finally a good germicide should be used frequently, such as Turpo, which is a most effective germicide.

Snuff a little Turpo up the nostrils several times a day, and the flu germs will have no chance of getting a lodging and breeding place. Many physicians and hospitals use and recommend Turpo.

Turpo is an effective germicide, combining the old-fashioned remedies of turpentine, camphor and menthol in a pure mineral base. The ingredients have long been recognized as effective germicides, as well as having really wonderful qualities in relieving colds and congestions. As a preventive for flu, Turpo has been widely used and recommended. Last season the druggists could not supply the demand for Turpo, so it is important to buy a thirty-cent jar of Turpo.

While he has a supply on hand, and use as directed.

If in spite of all precautions, Spanish influenza develops, go to bed and summon a physician. Influenza is a serious malady, and requires the best medical attention.

Leaflets on Prevention and Treatment of Influenza and Pneumonia can be obtained at your drug store.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mabel J. Gray on a prospecting trip looking over one of her own claims.

Soon we will be administering our daughters as we did our sons to "Go west, young woman, go west." It seems that in the west we find progressive institutions. Of course it was but a few days ago that New York elected a woman to the state assembly, but it remained for Nevada to come forward with the only woman president of a mine.

It has not been established that Miss Mabel J. Gray is the only woman mine president, but no one has come forward yet to dispute her right to the distinction. Miss Gray is an attractive young business woman of Tonopah, Nevada. She heads a company which has six claims in a new section where she says she expects to stage a little mining excitement of her own.

The accompanying photograph was taken while Miss Gray was on a prospecting trip. She wears men's clothing while on these mining trips and she is a familiar figure in this garb on the streets of Tonopah. Miss Gray holds several other jobs besides that of mining president and she seems to be making good at all of them.

NINE-HOUR DAY FOR MAIDS
If the nine-hour schedule can be worked out satisfactorily, Chicago housewives and cooks who are asking an eight-hour day will be willing to accept it as a compromise.

Another meeting for the houseworkers, held recently at the headquarters of the Woman's Trades Union League, showed the union is growing rapidly. More than 100 delegates appeared at the meeting and many new names were added to the union list.

OPEN DOORS TO WOMEN
Twenty women have been enrolled in the medical college of New York university for the first time in its history, according to an announcement made by Dean Samuel A. Brown of the medical faculty. These women will have equal privileges with the men, attending the same classes, working in the same laboratories and clinics, and receiving their degrees after completion of the same curriculum of study.

"Since the recent international conference of women physicians held in New York," said Dean Brown, "the question of how the medical profession is attracting women to it, ranks has been endlessly repeated. Extreme interest is attached to the fact that the doors of the medical college of New York university were opened to women. The answer to that question was given by the immediate admission of a score of women, although little has been said in advance of the innovation in our policy."

ENGLISH WOMEN MONOCLED
English women are beginning to wear monocles. Not only are they adopting them for home wear but are appearing on the streets so adorned. A number of a firm of opticians declared the innovation by saying that in the case of every inquiry he had had from women recently there was a "genuine trouble with one eye only."

PASTOR DENOUNCES PRESENT FASHIONS
Present day styles of clothes worn by church women were censured recently at the national training conference of the Interchurch World Movement of North America.

"The indecent dress of some women in our churches makes it tremendously hard for a young man to keep his thoughts clean and pure," declared the Rev. J. R. Crowther of Seattle.

"In public these days you can scarcely tell the difference between a street woman and a church woman."

There isn't much difference between some.

CARTER GLASS.
The appointment of Carter Glass to succeed the late Thomas S. Martin as senator from Virginia has been greeted with satisfaction not only by his fellow members in congress but by financial men all over the country. For Mr. Glass has long been known as an expert in financial matters—a reputation which he has maintained.

CARTER GLASS

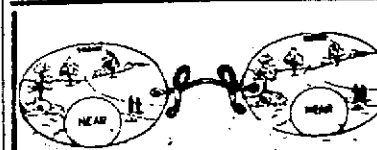

he had no idea that he was ever to be closely associated with financing and currency. His first job after he left school was as apprentice in a printer's establishment. Shortly afterward he found employment in a newspaper composing room, learning what there was to learn there and then joined the news staff. He is now owner of the Daily News of Lynchburg and the Daily Reporter of the city.

Mr. Glass was a member of the Virginia state senate for six years before going to congress. He went as congressman in 1902 and served there continuously as representative of the Sixth district of Virginia up to the time of his appointment as secretary of the treasury.

It was while he was in the Virginia upper house that, because of certain legislation that had come up, he first attracted the attention of the close study of finance and currency; by the time he arrived in Washington he was an admitted authority.

Mr. Glass's long organization Democrat ever since he cast his first vote and was the choice of Mr. McAdoo as well as President Wilson when he was nominated for the treasury.

He is sixty-one years old, was born in Lynchburg and has spent his whole life there, except during his terms in Washington.

JANESVILLE SWAMPED BY WALWORTH 41-0; SEASON'S LAST GAME

Janesville football squad has the blues, and the indigno doesn't come from the indigno of the school colors either. The locals went down to defeat again yesterday, an overwhelming loss of 41 to 0. A no-win season thus is ended.

Playing on a slippery, soggy field that was less than three-quarters full, the regulation width and cracked out on a gentle slope, the Tractor City eleven lost its last game of the season to Walworth yesterday afternoon. Practically all of the scoring came in the first three quarters except for one touchdown early in the fourth quarter.

The way in which the Janesville lads picked up spirits in the last ten minutes of play and not only held the team of Adventist town, but actually took the game back and carried the ball by successive forward passes into their own territory was inspiring. Only the time-keeper's whistle stopped the team from continuing this despite the fact that Capt. "Mike" Powers had been withdrawn from the battle with a badly injured left shoulder and a fractured head injured sustained in the game with Beloit last Saturday.

Darkness was fast closing the net of the play, making the game difficult, when the locals got their stride. Nevertheless they kept the ball in their possession, capturing every down and gaining yard. Townsend, Dobson and Hager made a trio that slowly pushed the ball from the Adventist line when time was called.

Numerous Penalties Throughout the contest penalties were enforced on both sides, mainly for off-side plays. In the third quarter, a penalty on Janesville for eight yards placed the ball back to the referee placed the ball upon Walworth's 5-yard line from where Orcutt, right half, plunged through for a 30-yard run, ending in a touchdown. This penalty was inflicted even though Hall was acting captain.

Play did not commence until nearly 3:30 because the Walworth lads were compelled to finish their class work before taking the field. Many cases of time-out for minor injuries to players of both sides delayed the game, and with the sky overclouded anyway, darkness hurried the fall before the third quarter had gone more than five minutes.

The early stages of the game were seen-saw. From kick-off Janesville showed spunk, putting up pretty tackling and a 10-yard gain by Hall. But Walworth got the ball, it was shot to Orcutt for a 30-yard run, followed by a touchdown. Radebaugh, left half, kicked goal. Score 7 to 0.

On the kick-off, Radebaugh, blue fullback, caught the pferoid and advanced 10 yards. On the down the ball went to Walworth. Radebaugh then got into the game, catching the ball and running into the opposing wall. Radebaugh got the ball from scrimmage and ran for a 30-yard run, ending in a touchdown. He followed by kicking goal, making the score 14 to 0. On a recurrence of similar tactics, Greene, right half, ran over for a touchdown which Radebaugh completed with a kick for goal. Score 21 to 0.

Exciting play marked the first few minutes of the second quarter. Working with hammer effect, Powers rushed Orcutt, tackled and earned a 3-yard gain, but the ball was Walworth's. On a forward pass, "Rady" received, made a sizzling end run, only to be downed on the 6-yard line. Then he followed by executing a crawl for which Walworth was penalized 10 yards and the ball went to the Blues. On a forward pass, Powers earned a 12-yard gain, but he hit Walworth's strong back line. But it wasn't long before he got the ball again and made a sailing 40-yard punt, which Radebaugh caught and passed back for a 10-yard gain to Ingalls, fullback. The play was blocked by Hall's tackle.

Orcutt Makes Spirals. With the ball Walworth, Orcutt cut some spiral capers, breaking a hole in Janesville's line. Radebaugh then dashed through an opening made by "Izzy" Coon for a 5-yard gain. On the pass, Orcutt made a left end run for a touchdown. "Rady" kicked goal. Score 28 to 0.

Radebaugh hit the ball dropping in. Powers' mals for a 6-yard advance, and a pass to Sullivan, who was playing despite a split finger. Greene tackled and on the forward pass from scrimmage, he made a 30-yard punt to Radebaugh, who attempted to drop kick for a field goal, but he missed the ball. However, it was a miss and the halt was over. Score 28 to 0.

Rapid work marked the opening of the third quarter, with the ball in the Janesville bunch. It was the blues' kick-off and the ball was advanced gradually until Greene tackled Powers and caused the injury to Sullivan, who was playing despite a split finger. Greene tackled and on the forward pass from scrimmage, he made a 30-yard punt to Radebaugh, who attempted to drop kick for a field goal, but he missed the ball. However, it was a miss and the halt was over. Score 28 to 0.

It was at this point that Hall used his tongue and the Blues were penalized 5 yards. A touchdown by Orcutt then was a simple matter, although he made it by inches. Radebaugh kicked goal. Score 35 to 0. Resumption of the same tactics left the spheroid on Walworth's 15-yard line at the close of the third quarter, from where it was advanced to the 8-yard line in the last period before Janesville halted it. Radebaugh found it a cinch to bore a hole for a touchdown, but he missed the goal on a free kick. That was the last of the scoring, that balance of play showing Janesville's futile comeback. Score 41 to 0.

Newman played a heady game when Powers and Hall went out and he was ably assisted by Tunstead and Townsend.

Spilling 'em

It is unfortunate Janesville. High hasn't a few more games of football to play this season. They found themselves in the last quarter yesterday afternoon and the shifts caused by necessity from injuries to players accidentally created a strong team that played consistent offensive ball.

Though the locals ended a bad season with defeat, it must be said that those few final minutes show they have the goods. Poor distribution of players would seem to have been somewhat responsible for past defeat, some of the best material having been kept on the side lines.

No one can really be blamed entirely for this. Lack of players among the high school pupils and especially of a second team, gave the team little chance for scrimmage practice. In fact, almost the only scrimmaging the players got was in the games with outside teams.

There is a consolation in the fact that the line-up of the last ten minutes was composed nearly of the same players, which should mean a good first team next year.

Walworth, by her victory yesterday, will take the state championship against Beloit, Waukesha and Stoughton at Appleton.

The Adventists can give thanks to the referee, Harold Schultz, for some of the victory.

OHIO AND ILLINOIS MEET FOR GRUELLING TITLE GAME TODAY

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Ohio State and Illinois eleven met today in the annual title game of the championship of the Western conference for 1919. No gridiron engagement in the west transcends in importance the battle between these two premier teams of the "Big Ten" in Ohio field this afternoon.

The weather before the game was a heavy rain. The field was soggy from a heavy rain last night. From the beginning of the season, the Buckeye boys favored the eyes of the critics for the title. The early stages of the game were seen-saw. From kick-off Janesville showed spunk, putting up pretty tackling and a 10-yard gain by Hall. But Walworth got the ball, it was shot to Orcutt for a 30-yard run, followed by a touchdown. Radebaugh, left half, kicked goal. Score 7 to 0.

MINNESOTA FAVORITE AGAINST MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22.—Minnesota ruled the favorite for today's gridiron battle with Michigan, the first meeting of the old time rivals since 1910.

While the Gophers were confident of victory, the Wolverines went into the game determined to fight it out to the finish.

The lineup was shifted to present a stronger defense wall and several changes were made in the backfield to effect a more aggressive attack. The probable lineup:

Minnesota
Dunn...le...Goetz...le...Vick...le...Wilson...le...Henderson...le...Knabe...le...Sparks...le...Cruse...le

BELOIT HIGH TURNS DOWN 'MONEY' GAME

Beloit, Nov. 22.—When Beloit high school football players, state title claimants, threatened to resign to play a Thanksgiving game scheduled with Kenosha on the grounds that it would have no bearing on the pending season, local team managers completed negotiations to play La Crosse at La Crosse on the holiday. Neither La Crosse nor Beloit have been declared champions of the state. Previous to the sudden shift, the La Crosse offer had been neglected in order to arrange a game with Kenosha that would bring Beloit $100 and expenses. "Commercialized sport" was the brand placed on the project by the eleven. This is the first year in history that Beloit has held a legitimate football title claim.

Madison Five Seeking Basketball Games Here

Patterson street, Madison, Wis.

BADGERS IN FORM, WILL GIVE CHICAGO GOOD RUB TODAY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Second place in the "Big Ten" conference standing was at stake when the Wisconsin football team met the University of Chicago eleven here today. Wisconsin displayed its best football of the season last Saturday when Ohio State was held without a touchdown and with the offensive and defensive strength Chicago has displayed since its single defeat by Illinois, a hard fight was looked for. Neither team today was handicapped by a crippled player.

Today's game marked the passing from college football of Captain Higgins, Elton Graham and Hutchinson of the Chicago team, and probably MacDonald, Hinkle and Reber. The last three may compete next fall if they wish because of their army service.

The probable lineup:
Chicago Position Wisconsin
MacDonald...le...McGuire...le...Crisler...le...Graham...le...Eaton...le...Hansich...le

THAT HAPPY MEETING

You were a sergeant-major then,
I was only a buck,
But until we two shall meet again
I'll feel I am outa luck.

When we said farewell in the dark and damp,
My thoughts you never guessed;
But I yearned for you in the Casual Camp
When you rolled off to Breast.

I yearned for you and my heart was sore—
I thought of your foolish pranks;
You'd taken my fancy—what is more,
You'd taken most all my franks.

Yes, you were a 'sergent-major' then,
I was only a buck;
But some dark night I'll meet again,
And YOU'll be outa luck.

Having your money may be all right, says ex-Sergt. SOL, but if people were to saving it wouldn't pay to advertise. But then, he other-hands somebody's gotta save, or there wouldn't be anything to advertise.

THIS MAY HAVE GOT TO US BY MISTAKE BUT WE'RE TAKING A CHANCE ANYHOW

Dear Problem Editor,
I am a very beautiful girl of twenty with large blue eyes and my own complexion. For some time I have been going with a sailor who is very fond of me and respects me very much and is all the time hugging and kissing me and everything but as I am very cold and distant to him we don't have much fun when we go out together as I think a sailor's uniform too informal and would prefer a soldier's anyhow. That is my problem and what are you going to do about it?

Ah, CONFUSED, how glad I am you came to me in your dilemma! You have your problem and I have mine; you omitted your address. Send it in immediately and both will be solved.

Hunkie: Yesir.

SKIPPER: Are you an American citizen?
Hunkie: Uh-ugh.

SKIPPER: Say SIR! Are you an 'American citizen'?

Hunkie: Yesir.

Sergt.: He's a liar.
SKIPPER: You're not an American citizen, are you?

Hunkie: I don't care what you want, you're in the army now and you've got to stand at attention and address your officer as SIR! Versteh?

Do you want to become an American citizen?
Hunkie: (Having got the habit at last) Yesir.

SKIPPER: Why didn't you say so before? Fall in outside with the rest. NEXT MAN!

ALL JOKING ASIDE
The War Dept. is after the Sympathy Bldder with a big stick. And he deserves all that's coming to him. The man who tries to salvage a living by wearing a uniform that was never issued to a beging detail, and a white that was never worn with that uniform by any man that had a right to it, deserves nothing less than the undiluted raspberry from every ex-service man. O.D.'s are fighting clothes, and, as the fashion magazine would say, out of place for informal business wear.

Laws are all right and pieces in the paper are all right, but there is only one thing that will put the skids under the camouflaged hero who is too proud to work and that is a gentle push in the quiet sector from the men who may know they've earned a bonus but aren't marking time till Congress passes the act.

THOUSANDS TURNED AWAY FROM HARVARD-YALE BIG TUSSLE

Cambridge, Mass., November 22.—Harvard and Yale approached the annual settlement of their football claims today with the players primed to make their utmost effort. Both teams were reported "fit" by trainers and coaches and the enthusiasm among their adherents ran riot. Approximately 60,000 football mad spectators streamed out to the Harvard stadium to watch the teams in their first contest since 1916. Thousands of others, disappointed because of their inability to procure tickets, availed the outcome on the streets, or in gathering places where bulletins were posted. Boston newspapers, under orders in effect since the state guard has been on the streets, there were not permitted to display bulletins of the game, but arranged to publish many extra editions.

Wild Signs to Box Sharkey at Milwaukee

New York, Nov. 22.—Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight champion, signed articles of agreement here today to meet Jack Sharkey of this city in a ten-round bout at Milwaukee Dec. 6. The weight is to be 116 pounds ringside, Sharkey posting approximately 60,000 tickets.

Otto Borchert, president of the Milwaukee club, also signed the agreement, and will leave with Wilde and his manager for Chicago this afternoon.

The Lakota line-up is George Lewis.

The same men who played for the Lakota Cardinals on the basketball floor last year and helped win the Central league title, the Union championship, will appear in the team's line-up this year, with the exception of two new men, George Lewis, right forward, and Leonard Olson, at left guard. The stage is nearly set for the first game, which will occur next Saturday night, Nov. 29, at the armory here, when the Lakota Cardinals will square off against the Cards.

Large crowds are expected at the game, which will be the locals' first home game of the season. Fond du Lac is considered an exceptionally strong team this season. Three of its players were members of the crack Fond du Lac high school team in 1917, when Fond du Lac won the state high school championship. In addition there are two star outside players, forming a fighting line-up. Lakota has already played two games this season, one with Green Bay and the other with some other northern Wisconsin team. They won both by margins of 15 to 20 points.

Thus Janesville will start off with good reason to fight its way. This game will enable the managers to judge the condition of the Cards this year and gauge the outcome of the season.

Plicity of seats have been provided to handle a crowd of 1,000. The game will start at 8 o'clock sharp at the armory and will be followed by dancing.

WOOLEN BOYS TAKE THREE FROM P. O.; POLICE WIN COUPLE

Taking all three games of a match with the Post Office in the Industrial-Commercial league race last night, the Woolen Mills jumped in to the running to join two other teams in a tie for third place. The mail men played better ball toward the end of the match, while the Woolen fellows gradually dropped off form. Highest man was Meyers of Woolen, with 150, with Geske of the same bunch runner up at 179. Meyers had high average of 172.

The Police clubbed their way to two victories over the Rock River Machine Co. last night in the same league, winning by margins of about 60 pins. Catlin made a good score of 212, while Runner-up Morrissey couldn't make any more than 160. Catlin was high average man at 168.

SIDE LIGHTS on the CIRCUS BUSINESS

By D. W. WATT
Former Manager Burr Robbins
and Later Treasurer of Adam Forepaugh Circuses.

The following letter written by O. D. Brandenburg, Madison, a life-long friend of the circus, and one of the oldest personal friends of the late Al. T. Ringling, the great showman who passed away some two weeks ago, will be of interest to the reader.

"I am sure all the good people of Janesville will be interested in the details of the funeral of Al. T. Ringling, who was present. Mr. Brandenburg now is at his childhood home in Fishing, Ohio, whither he was going prior to his death.

"Alfred ultimately, adds Mr. Brandenburg, 'will be laid away in an enduring mausoleum on the mountain, half a mile across the valley from his own beautiful home and clearly visible from it. It will be a stately structure, but it is his wish, solemnly expressed, that it be erected in a place pretty nearly to that dignity, thrice the height of the bluffs at Devils lake or more.

"The funeral occurred at 2:30 P. M. on Friday afternoon—an ideal day, the sun shining brightly, the clouds and the valley all in amber. Here nature has painted an exquisite autumn. It was a little group of relatives, chiefly, with scarcely more than half a dozen intimates that formed a semicircle in the great living room of the Ringling country home. Richard, the sorrowful, and the sister, Neddy from Montana and the sister, Harry North had journeyed from Baraboo. The brothers, Charles E. and John, with their children, Robert and Foster, now Mrs. Louis G. Lancaster, also John M. Kelley, attorney for the Ringlings, and C. G. Madison, who had come to them in their circus operations. Then there was Alfred's widow, little, bowed and grieving; and her sister, Thelma, and two or three others formed the sorrowing assembly with the several servants of the household in the background.

"Flowers, the richest that New York could produce, were round about the casket, with a great blanket of greenery thrown carelessly over the foot. Alfred had died in his sleep, and his expression was one of complete freedom from pain.

"Rev. Dr. Peter McMillan, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Baraboo, nine miles away, officiated. If he had known the dead he could have told of his gentle nature, his ceaseless kindness, his earnestness, but in the absence of personal knowledge he dealt in inspiring generalities, effectively and soothingly. The Grace church associated with the oldest Episcopal church in the state, sang, while there were two solos, 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' by Mrs. Rebecca E. Pharo, soprano, and 'On Rest in the Lord,' by Miss Helen Bayes, contralto. C. Henry Earle

DUCKING AT DUCK ISLAND
PRESERVE

(By William C. Hazelton)

Of many enjoyable days spent on the marsh and in the blind, the writer or most esteems those recently spent as the guest of Daniel Voorhees, president of the Duck Island preserve on the Illinois river. For he has an opportunity to be entertained by such a sterling sportsman and at such a splendid resort for waterfowl. He is assured of the cream of wildfowl shooting and that everything will be done for his personal comfort.

"Would you like to see the lake?" said a friendly pusher at the Duck Island club house, where I was awaiting the return of Daniel Voorhees on my first visit. He had been here with a broken gun and this young man had been his guide.

On my assuring him that I would, together we walked down the path through an opening in the trees leading from the club house to where a narrow channel ran in from the main lake. As I was walking an observer had come in with a broken gun and this young man had been his guide.

Ical Day for Ducks

Before us were acres of the Indian lotus, their huge leaves waving in the strong north-west wind. An ideal day for ducks, clouds of which were hovering over the open waters of the lake, and others at rest on its bosom. Just then a flock of green-winged teal whizzed by over the swaying lotus, swirling and drifting as caught by the wind and then falling into the teeth of the gale like so many erratic jack snipe. They are truly speed demons at times.

The view of the lake was one of great beauty and carried me back to my earliest recollections of the sport. Could any sportsman view such a scene without having his blood stirred and his heart-beats quicken?

"You won't need any decoys," I was assured the next morning, as I started down the lake in company with two other boats containing two members of the club and their pushers.

After proceeding down the lake nearly a mile, we followed a channel into the Goose pond, where my companions located and I pressed on the dead overgrown timber. Little patches of brush were here and there and water covered all this part of the club's domain.

Ducks Began to Return

Large numbers of mallards and gray ducks, which had been routed out by our approach, now began to return. My boat was partially concealed by a few trees standing upright. I made no attempt to build a blind as it was unnecessary. Some of the housewifed mallards would see me at times, of course, especially when swinging nearly overhead.

My first shot at a single gray duck was missed and my thought was that it was foolish of me to shoot at him at all. Thus one saves one's confidence for a miss. Then I did better, getting three straight at single birds, two gray ducks and a fat mallard hen. A few flocks of pin-tails circled around, but these long-necked and wise birds, when headed off, certainly get a shot, would veer off before reaching me just enough to put them safely out of range. I did not wish to strain the gun by shooting at them. Besides, there were plenty of other ducks to be had.

I would try for some mallards. Here comes a pair and why not make a double. I failed, though, getting my first bird only. Old man, you don't shoot as well as you used to. In the old days you would not miss a shot like that. The only alibi I have is that my present gun does not just fit me. I must have some excuse.

She Dropped With Splash

Here comes a mallard hen and she is apparently determined to alight in a little opening just in front of me, without any precautionary circles. Her wings are cupped in close to her body as she drops directly facing me. There was no warning for her. She never saw me at all. I made a center shot and she dropped with a heavy splash.

Well, so the day continued with a succession of hits and misses. I made a few good shots and some poor ones. I was glad no one was near to see some of the misses. It would not have added to my reputation as a marksman. I guess they all do it at times.

Just before I had my limit, an amusing incident occurred. The first time in my life I ever had it happen, I would not have objected to a spectator this time.

A single mallard drake approached me with the wind at a good speed and pretty well up in the air. He fired at him just before he was immediately overhead. He fell with great force directly into the boat with a resounding crash. He barely missed me. Had he only been winged, which he was not, the fall would have killed him. A good idea, dropping them in the boat, if one could do it with regularity.

After bagging two more birds. I had the limit, eight mallards and seven gray ducks, and wended my way back to the club house, arriving about 2 o'clock, and found about all the hunters had returned, each with the legal limit of 15 birds. So ended my first day at this glorious resort of waterfowl, and it is one which will ever linger in my memory.

Other Sportsmen There

Participating in the sport at the club while I was there were such genial sportsmen as Daniel W. Voorhees, Danie, Jr., C. J. Sammis, W. B. Woolner and N. C. Gessow, Peoria, Senator Alderson, Pekin, and Judge George A. Carpenter, Dr. Thomas H. Lewis, Russell Tyson, C. W. Stiger and W. W. Wheelock, Chicago. Truly a coterie to gladden the heart of any sportsman.

The feature of the Duck Island preserve which first attracts your interest is the immense beds of Indian lotus. The lotus has played an important part in ancient history and art. The whole story of creation, the genesis and fulfillment of life are imaged in this beautiful plant that takes its rise from the lowliest places, passes through dark and troubled waters, yet brings to maturity a pure and spiritually perfect flower. The lotuses or nelumbians, gigantic in size, exquisite of hue, delicately perfumed, easily hold a foremost place among aquatic flowers. Their brown seed pods, rising above the waters after the flowers have gone, are so strikingly decorative none can pass them unobserving.

Nelumbians differ from water lilies in that they lift both leaves and blossoms, high above the water. Water lilies float serenely upon the water, tugging at their stems like moored boats. Lotusess spring well

Dannie Jr. is a crack shot. Danie, Jr., is a crack duck shot. He was shooting a Parker 10 gauge with 24-inch barrels and brought ducks down with precision from a considerable height. Hard to beat what he can do at the traps.

A strict rule at this progressive club is that only one gun is allowed in a boat and the guide or pusher is not permitted to shoot. This restricts each member to fifteen birds. The rule might well be followed at other preserves.

Each evening in the spacious living room, by an open fireplace, drawing for location for the next day's sport would take place. The pushers were then called in for consultation.

Not a single magazine or automatic gun was in evidence and I believe their use is prohibited. The mallards seemed to predominate on the club territory, with gray ducks next in profusion. An excellent bird, the gray duck, too.

The fine Chesapeake Bay dog, Teddy, was the pet of the club. He retrieved sixty ducks one day. This Chesapeake are the most companionable and intelligent of dogs.

Daniel Voorhees is held in affectionate reverence and esteem as a brother individually by very members of the club. Their loyalty was ever apparent.

Here's long life to the Duck Island club and the prince of sportsmen, Daniel Voorhees!

Resume of Moving Picture Programs of Last Week

(BY MRS. ABBIE HELMS.)

Pictures of the Prince of Wales at the functions given for his entertainment are items of interest in the weekly reviews. The Sunday picture at the Majestic was "Broken Commandments," but it was a pretty picture and not as bad as you might think from the title. Gladys Brockwell is a girl brought up in the red-wood forests, and is left at home for a time to care for the live stock, while the parents go down to the city for an operation for one of them. An escaped prisoner from the penitentiary drifts along and they fall in love and are married by the country preacher. Then before the husband can find work, he is apprehended and again sent to the "pen." She believes that he is out of her life marries a good man who is fond of her. Later after a child is born, the first man returns and finding her happily married drops out of sight again.

A sunshiny western story was shown at the Beverly Thursday by William Desmond in "The Blue Bandanna." The bandanna was part of the disguise worn by a robber who held up the stage coach, and Desmond, who is an ardent reader of detective tales, thinks the man is his employer, and the father of his sweetheart. He is caught with a similar disguise, while trying to warn the coach to take another road, and is nearly strung up by the zealous cowboys before the right man is discovered. He has donned a big kitchen apron and is doing house work on the ranch that he might be near the girl of his heart, and altogether has a most enjoyable experience.

The Apollo had a delightful play "Virtuous Vamp," by Constance Talmadge for its main picture this week. She worked in an insurance office and seemed to have the faculty of making eyes at all the men. Her employer tried to be severe and had her changed from one section of the office to another, as her fellow clerks became smitten but he succumbed to her charms like the rest. His old maid sisters raised a rumpus about his marrying beneath him, until in the last chapter when it comes out that she was a titled woman and lived in a castle. Then they fell all over themselves in their obsequiousness.

evening to bid them farewell. The evening was spent at dancing and cards. Refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Schiefelbeim and family are moving to Edgerton. Mr. and Mrs. John Odenwalder and baby spent Sunday at Louis Odenwalder's, Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. B. Cooper and Mrs. Long spent Sunday at Gallen Pierce's.
